USING GOOGLE DOCS FOR RESEARCH PAPERS

How to Cite your Sources in 3 Easy Steps!

COMPILE A LIST OF SOURCES

- Open a Google Doc, and go to the Tools menu > Citations.
- This will bring up a Citations sidebar. Choose the appropriate citation style from the dropdown menu (MLA, APA, or Chicago).
- Click on the "Add Citation Source" button to add a new source to the list.
- Choose the source type from the first dropdown menu (e.g., book, website, journal article, etc.).
- Choose the method used to access the source from the second dropdown menu (e.g., print, website, online database, etc.).
- You will see customized options based on the type of source and access method you selected. Search for the source to automatically pull relevant citation information, or enter the information manually.
- Once the required fields are complete, click on the "Add Citation Source" button to officially add the source to the Citations sidebar.

$-11 + B I \cup A \land co \neq -1 + c + c + c + c + c + c + c + c + c + $	TO Citations × APA (7th ed.) •
Tools Extensions Help Accessibility Last edit wa	+ Add citation source
al A, Spelling and grammar ► Word count	Ambrose, S. A., Bridges, M. W., Lovett, M. C., DiPietro, M., & Norman, M. K. (2010). How Learning Works: Seven Research-Based Principles for Smart Teaching . Wiley.
Review suggested edits Ctrl+米O Ctrl+米U	Lang, J. M. (2016). Small Teaching:
✓ Compare documents	Everyday Lessons from the Science of Learning. Wiley.
" Citations	Shlasko, D., Griffin, P., Bell, L. A.,
	Goodman, D., & Adams, M. (Eds.). (2022). Teaching for Diversity and Social Justice . Routledge.

ADD IN-TEXT CITATIONS

- Once a source is added to the Citations sidebar, it is incredibly easy to add intext citations to your paper. Simply click on the spot in your paper where you want to add an in-text citation, and then hover over the related source in the Citations sidebar.
- A "Cite" button will appear. Click on it to automatically add an in-text citation to your paper.
- If the in-text citation requires you to add a page number (e.g., for book sources), the citation will include a "#" symbol, and you will see a reminder to replace the symbol with the specific page number(s) being referenced.
- As you type your paper and use additional sources, repeat the process of adding each source to the Citations sidebar and including in-text citations.

Ambrose, S. A., Bridges, Cite M. C., DiPietro, M., & Number Insert in-text citation (2010). How Learning Works. Covern Research-Based Principles for Smart Teaching. Wiley. Research Paper out a topic. Replace # with page number(s) the topic. (Ambrose et al., 2010, #)

CREATE A REFERENCES LIST

- Create a new page at the end of your paper for your references.
- Along the bottom of the Citations sidebar, you will see an "Insert References" or "Insert Works Cited" button (depending on the citation style being used).
- Click on this button to automatically add a References or Works Cited list to your paper.

Shlasko, D., Griffin, P., Bell, L. A., Goodman, D., & Adams, M. (Eds.). (2022). Teaching for Diversity and Social Justice. Routledge.

Insert References

References

Ambrose, S. A., Bridges, M. W., Lovett, M. C., DiPietro, M., & Norman, M. K. (2010). How

Learning Works: Seven Research-Based Principles for Smart Teaching. Wiley.

Lang, J. M. (2016). Small Teaching: Everyday Lessons from the Science of Learning. Wiley.

Shlasko, D., Griffin, P., Bell, L. A., Goodman, D., & Adams, M. (Eds.). (2022). Teaching for Diversity and Social Justice. Routledge.